

Configuration Points in Ultimo

Ultimo offers unmatched flexibility to adapt the software to your unique processes. This flexibility empowers you to fine-tune workflows, screens, reports and more, so the system works exactly the way you need it to.

However, with great flexibility comes a challenge: heavily configured environments can be harder to maintain and may not always benefit from the latest standard updates as seamlessly.

What are Configuration Points?

Configuration Points are a simple way to manage and provide insight into how much configuration has been applied in your Ultimo environment. They help you stay in control by showing both how many points have already been used and how many are still available. This transparency makes it clear that while configuration is powerful, excessive configuration can make upgrades and maintenance more complex.

How Can They Be Used in Ultimo?

Configuration points are available in Premium and Enterprise editions. They are consumed when configuring workflows, screens, reports, database fields. Each modification deducts a specific number of points. When you reach the maximum, no further configuration is possible without purchasing extra points.

How are they calculated?

By default, every Premium and Enterprise environment includes 100 configuration points. Different types of modifications use different amounts of points:

Modification Type	Points per unit
Screen	0.25
Report	1.00
Workflow	1.00
Mobile file	1.00
Database column	0.10

The configuration log in Ultimo shows you how many points are used and how many are left.

Purchasing more Configuration Points

If your organization requires more flexibility than the default allocation allows, you can purchase additional packs of 100 configuration points.

Contact your Ultimo account manager or use the Webshop on the Customer Portal to expand your licence.
